Dear Mr. Moskowitz:

STAT In the past couple of months we have been very pleased to have [] meet with classes of Foreign Service Officers engaged in the study of methods of political analysis, to discuss with them the nature of the intelligence process, and the pitfalls which can lead to intelligence failure. These sessions have proved extremely valuable in exposing the FSOs, in credible fashion, to real world problems of intelligence analysis which are directly applicable to their work as political analysts of complex situations.

STAT We would like to have [] to address similar courses in the future, because we believe that the methods and insights he has to offer cannot be obtained from any other source. His message is so important that we hope to use him as the lead speaker for each of our major analysis courses. We would, therefore, greatly appreciate your assistance in helping to make him available. We include the intelligence analysis unit twice in each session of the Mid-Level Professional Development Program (once for the Advanced Political Functional program, and once for an elective in analysis and reporting offered for Mid-Level officers in other functional cones), and in a separate reporting and analysis course offered two or three times a year. The Mid-Level program is expected, beginning next Fall, to be given three times per year. We would hope, then, to have [] speak eight times a year for two and a half hours per session.)

STAT We thank you for any assistance you and the Agency can give us to make the insights you have to offer available to Foreign Service Officers.

Sincerely,

Joseph W. Twinam
